COPPER SINKS CARE

Cura dei lavelli in rame

Entretien des évier en cuivre

ITA Prendersi cura del prorio lavello in rame è davvero un compito facile, ma quotidiano. I lavelli in rame hanno il loro rivestimento protettivo chiamato patina. Questa finitura viva si trova naturalmente nel rame e nel tempo fornisce le sue proprietà antimicrobiche naturali che continueranno a cambiare ad evolversi nel tempo. E poichè il rame è un metallo vivo, lo scolorimento è inevitabile, ma ci sono modi per ridurre scolorimento e macchie naturali

CONSIGLI PER LA CURA DEL LAVELLO IN RAME:

- Pulire dopo ogni utilizzo con acqua tiepida, un detersivo per piatti delicato e un panno morbido o una spugna, ma assicurati di evitare prodotti chimici e detergenti aggressivi e abrasivi.
- Non utilizzare mai spugne abrasive, lana d'acciaio o qualsiasi altra spugna dura.
- Usare bicarbonato di sodio e acqua tiepida per rimuovere una macchia ostinata dalla superficie del lavandino.
- Asciugare il lavello dopo ogni utilizzo per evitare depositi minerali e macchie verdi.
- Rimuovere sempre i residui di cibo (soprattutto cibi acidi) e le stoviglie per evitare scolorimento temporaneo e graffi sulla superficie del lavello.
- Applicare a bisogno una cera o una protezione per il rame (o ogni volta che l'acqua non gocciola più sulla sua superficie) per schermare e lucidare la finitura del lavello in rame.

EN Taking care of your copper sink is an easy task but a daily one. Copper sinks have their own protective coating called patina. This living finish naturally occurs in copper, and over time, provides its natural anti-microbial properties which will continue to change and evolve over time. And because copper is a living metal, discoloration is inevitable but there are ways to reduce discoloration and natural spotting.

TIPS FOR COPPER SINK CARE:

- Clean after each use with warm water, a gentle dish soap, and a soft cloth or sponge but be sure to avoid harsh and abrasive chemicals and cleaners.
- Never use scouring pads, steel wool, or any other hard scrubbing pad.
- Use baking soda and warm water to remove a stubborn stain from your sink's surface.
- Dry your sink out after each use to prevent mineral deposits and green spotting.
- Always remove food debris (especially acidic foods) and dishes to prevent temporary discoloration and scratches to the sink's surface.
- Apply a copper protectant or wax monthly (or whenever water no longer beads on its surface) to shield and shine your copper sink's finish.

FR Prendre soin de votre évier en cuivre est une tâche facile mais quotidienne. Les éviers en cuivre ont leur propre revêtement protecteur appelé patine. Cette finition vivante se produit naturellement dans le cuivre et, au fil du temps, fournit ses propriétés antimicrobiennes naturelles qui continueront de changer et d'évoluer avec le temps. Et comme le cuivre est un métal vivant, la décoloration est inévitable mais il existe des moyens de réduire la décoloration et les taches naturelles.

CONSEILS POUR L'ENTRETIEN DES EVIERS EN CUIVRE :

- Nettoyez après chaque utilisation avec de l'eau tiède, un savon à vaisselle doux et un chiffon doux ou une éponge, mais assurez-vous d'éviter les produits chimiques et nettoyeurs agressifs et abrasifs.
- N'utilisez jamais de tampons à récurer, de laine d'acier ou tout autre tampon à récurer dur.
- Utilisez du bicarbonate de soude et de l'eau tiède pour enlever une tache tenace de la surface de votre évier.
- Séchez votre évier après chaque utilisation pour éviter les dépôts minéraux et les taches vertes.
- Enlevez toujours les débris alimentaires (en particulier les aliments acides) et la vaisselle pour éviter une décoloration temporaire et des rayures sur la surface de l'évier.
- Appliquez un protecteur de cuivre ou une cire tous les mois (ou chaque fois que l'eau ne perle plus sur sa surface) pour protéger et faire briller la finition de votre évier en cuivre.

DE Die Pflege Ihrer Kupferspüle ist eine einfache Aufgabe, aber eine tägliche. Kupferspülen haben eine eigene Schutzschicht namens Patina. Dieses lebendige Finish kommt auf natürliche Weise in Kupfer und mit der Zeit entfaltet sie ihre natürlichen antimikrobiellen Eigenschaften, die sich immer wieder verändern und weiterentwickeln. Und da Kupfer ein lebendiges Metall ist, ist eine Verfärbung unvermeidlich, aber es gibt Möglichkeiten, Verfärbungen und natürliche Flecken zu reduzieren.

TIPPS ZUR PFLEGE VON KUPFERSPÜLEN:

- Nach jedem Gebrauch mit warmem Wasser, einem milden Spülmittel und einem weichen Tuch oder Schwamm reinigen, vermeiden Sie jedoch scharfe und scheuernde Chemikalien und Reinigungsmittel.
- Verwenden Sie niemals Scheuerschwämme, Stahlwolle oder andere harte Schwämme.
- Verwenden Sie Natron und warmes Wasser, um hartnäckige Flecken von der Oberfläche Ihres Waschbeckens zu entfernen.
- Trocknen Sie Ihr Waschbecken nach jedem Gebrauch ab, um Mineralablagerungen und grüne Flecken zu vermeiden.
- Entfernen Sie immer Speisereste (insbesondere saurehaltige Speisen) und Geschirr, um vorübergehende Verfärbungen und Kratzer auf der Spülenoberfläche zu vermeiden.
- Tragen Sie monatlich (oder immer dann, wenn kein Wasser mehr auf der Oberfläche perlt) einen Kupferschutz oder ein Wachs auf, um die Oberfläche Ihrer Kupferspüle zu schützen und zu glänzen.
